

Fact Sheet: California Paid Family Leave

California Paid Family Leave (PFL) provides partial wage-replacement benefits to California workers who take time off from work for what matters most – caring for a seriously ill family member, bonding with a new child (including newly fostered and adopted children), or participating in a qualifying military event.

Am I Eligible?

You may be eligible if you are:

- A part-or full-time employee who pays into to State Disability Insurance (noted as “CASDI” on paystubs) and have earned at least $300 in wages during the 12-month base period of the claim.
- A self-employed California worker or independent contractor who has contributed to the Disability Insurance Elective Coverage program (edd.ca.gov/disability/Self-Employed.htm).

Your eligibility isn't affected by:

- Length of time worked at your current job.
- Citizenship and immigration status.

What does PFL Cover?

- Bonding with a new child entering the family through birth, adoption or foster care placement.
- Caring for a seriously ill family member (child, parent, parent-in-law, grandparent, grandchild, sibling, spouse, or registered domestic partner).
- Taking part in a qualifying event as a result of a family member's (spouse, registered domestic partner, parent, or child) military deployment to a foreign country.

What is a Serious Health Condition for PFL?

A serious health condition is an illness, injury, impairment, or physical or mental condition that requires:

- At-home or in-patient care in a hospital, hospice, or residential medical care facility.
- Continuing treatment by a licensed health professional.

Unless issues arise, cosmetic treatments, the common cold, flu, earaches, upset stomachs, minor ulcers, and non-migraine headaches do not qualify as a serious health condition.

What is Considered a Qualifying Event?

A qualifying event is any military event or an essential need resulting from a family member's deployment to a foreign country. For PFL, the military event does not have to occur in California. Qualifying events include:

- Arranging for childcare or parental care during the deployment.

- Assisting in making legal or financial arrangements during the deployment.
- Attending counseling.
- Assisting the military member during rest and recuperation leave.
- Attending military sponsored events or ceremonies.
- Representing the military member at federal, state, or local events.
- Addressing issues due to the military member's death.

Rest and recuperation leave can be done anywhere if you can provide the orders for your military family member showing the rest and recuperation leave.

How Much are PFL Benefits?

You may receive approximately 70 to 90 percent of your paycheck. Your employer may allow you to use vacation, sick, paid time off, or other leave along with your PFL benefits for you to receive up to 100 percent pay. You can estimate your weekly benefit amount using the Disability Insurance and PFL Calculator (edd.ca.gov/PFL_Calculator).

Do I Have to Take the Benefits all at Once?

You can take PFL all at once or split the time over a 12-month period. Bonding leave can only be taken within the first 12 months of a child entering your family.

How Do I Apply?

You can apply online or by mail.

- Visit myEDD (myedd.edd.ca.gov). Select SDI Online.
- Order a Claim for Paid Family Leave Benefits (DE 2501F) form by mail from EDD Forms and Publications (edd.ca.gov/forms).
