

New 2016 Health Care Spending Account (HCSA) Debit Cards

Your Health.

Should I receive a new Health Care Spending Account (HCSA) debit card for 2016?

If you were a HCSA participant in 2015 and you re-enrolled for 2016, you should keep your current debit card and reuse it during 2016. You will not receive a new flexible spending account debit card for 2016, unless one of the special situations listed below applies to you.

- If your card will expire in 2016, you'll automatically receive a new one.
- If you were enrolled in the High Deductible Health Plan (HDHP) in 2015 and moved to either the Medical PPO, a Chevron Medical HMO Plan, or waived Chevron medical coverage in 2016, you should have received a new card by mid-January.
- If you were enrolled in the Medical PPO Plan or a Chevron Medical HMO Plan in 2015 and you moved to the HDHP in 2016, you should have received a new debit card by mid-January only if you qualified for health rewards and received a $250 Wellness Credit on January 1, 2016. If you moved to the HDHP but did not qualify for the Wellness Credit, you should not have received a new debit card.
- Note that if this is your first time to participate in the HCSA (or the Limited Purpose Health Care Spending Account, if applicable) you should have automatically received a flexible spending account debit card in January.

There may be additional special situations in which you'll receive a new debit card that aren't listed above, so if you receive a new card in the mail, please activate it and start to use it right away for eligible expenses. If you incurred an eligible expense prior to receiving your new card, remember that you can still submit a claim form to be reimbursed.
