condition-specific specialty program update

What is a condition-specific specialty program?

The Prescription Drug Program includes provisions that allow the claims administrator – Express Scripts – to identify and provide plan participants with access to a variety of specialized services and support tools that are specific to certain health conditions. These are referred to as condition-specific specialty programs. These programs generally provide additional access to services and don't usually affect your current prescription drug benefit. In general, these programs support your adherence to medication treatments. Studies show that adhering to proper and consistent medication therapies can help you avoid hospital visits or a recurrence of dangerous symptoms and complications. There are currently programs already in place for conditions such as hepatitis, diabetes and pre-diabetes, cancer, cholesterol, pulmonary conditions, neurological conditions and more. With oversight from Chevron, Express Scripts has the authority to add, expand or eliminate these programs at any time as part of their responsibilities as a claims administrator.

Hypertension Remote Monitoring Program

For your information, effective January 1, 2024, Hypertension Remote Monitoring, a condition-specific specialty program, has been added to your Express Scripts prescription drug coverage. This program provides clinically targeted members a connected blood pressure cuff and mobile app to easily track their readings. With each reading, the member receives instant in-app feedback and coaching to drive them closer to their goal. In addition, members have access to a clinical coaching team who provide counseling on ways to keep their blood pressure well controlled, adhering to their medications and generally managing their hypertension through lifestyle changes.

If you have questions about this or other condition-specific specialty programs, contact Express Scripts Member Services at 1-800-987-8368 starting October 16, 2024.
